Education is the key to development. Our nation stands in urgent need of quality education. St. Vincent Pallotti School has been contributing to the growth of the nation. Another mile stone of service has taken place in St. Vincent Pallotti School. More facilities are added to enhance the atmosphere of learning. I congratulate and thank the management, staff and the parents who are standing behind the students and shaping their future. I am hopeful that the school annual publication would help to nurture the talents of the students and highlight their achievements. I wish and pray that the school continue to serve the city of Indore specially the young generation.

"Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high, where knowledge is free, where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls."

- Rabindra Nath Tagore

Aim of Pallotti Group of Institutions spread across the world is to provide quality education. We believe that character building and personality development are the core aspects of all learning processes. Over the Fifteen years since its establishment, St. Vincent Pallotti School at Sukhliya has been excelling well both in academics and extra curricular activities and imparting quality education.

In the Mission Statement of the school we read that the School aims at achieving holistic development of every child through personal accompaniment and walks along with every child to make the right choices in life. In this effort the management, staff, students and parents have a specific role to fulfill. School is the best time in a person's life where memories are built and experiences are gained.

A school magazine is an integral part of school life. It is a platform for students to exhibit their varied talents and imaginations and record the unique moments of the school during the academic year. 'Lume Pallotti', like its previous editions, bear ample testimony to the quality of the school. It is a tender gesture of taking responsibility by student as a symbol of future endeavors. I take this occasion to congratulate the Manager, Principal, Staff, Students and Parents for their commitment and strong sense of service and responsibility which has transformed this institution into an outstanding and significant temple of learning today. Dear Staff and students let us believe in our ability to work together for something great for the family, School and the nation as a whole. Let us continue our journey in making the school the very best it can be with renewed vigor and enthusiasm.

May God bless St. Vincent Pallotti School at Sukhliya.

Yours in St. Vincent Pallotti,

Fr. Varghese Pullan SAC
Chairman, Pallotti Group of Institutions

From Manager's Desk

Dear Friends,

I am very happy to know that the 11th Edition of our School Magazine is getting ready for publication. I take this opportunity to congratulate the Editorial Board. They have captured the life and dynamism of the school through their creative work. I congratulate everyone who has contributed in small and big ways towards the publication of this Magazine.

These days, every country is graded by national and international agencies on different criteria. India is often graded as a young, talented and fast developing country. It is true that we are on the fast track on many counts. The back bone of such growth is the education that is offered to the young Indians. The steady economic growth is a happy story that makes us all proud. However, one of the criterion on which countries are graded is how 'good' they are towards other countries. As a nation do we have the right attitude towards other nations so that we can help other nations in their nation building and thereby create this earth a wonderful place for all? India and China, two of the fast developing nations, does not find a place in the first hundred nations of the world. But very interestingly, Ireland and Finland, two smaller countries, rank first and second respectively. A country like Kenya, which has nothing much to glory about, ranks less than thirty as compared to other nations of the world. The great Rishis of India spoke about Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam which means "the world is one family". Yes indeed, the world should look up to India to learn how to be 'good'. For each Indian this globe is his or her family. However, we are failing in our responsibility. We are failing in our education, we are failing to create right attitude in the young minds to open their hearts to other people and nations. We human beings as the most successful species of the earth have a responsibility to protect our mother earth, to help our fellow human beings to lead a peaceful life. We cannot achieve this by conflict and competition; we need to strive for it through harmonious cooperation, protecting the interest of all. I wish and hope that our effort to educate the young minds of India yield fruit by creating a 'vision of good' for all. May St. Vincent Pallotti School continue to be truly a beacon of education leading to authentic growth, thereby forming its students towards becoming future citizens with character, conscience, competence, commitment and compassion. Jai Hind!

From Principal's Desk

Dear Parents, Teachers, Students and Well-wishers,

Jim Carrey, the famous Canadian-American comedian and writer was giving the commencement address to the graduates of Maharishi University of Management, USA. He was mixing a lot of slapstick comedy and humor to convey some deeply meaningful ideas. He said, "My soul is not contained within the limits of my body, my body is contained within the limitlessness of my soul." While I was listening to his talk on the internet, I was struck by this thought, - Is not this the real meaning of education? - to make every child realize the limitlessness of his or her potential, to make them aware that they are perfect as they are, to help them appreciate themselves for who they are, and to inspire and to assist them to expand their vision and action in such a way that each child can break away from the boundaries which the society, the customs and traditions and the family place around them. Education should be directed to teaching children to embrace boundlessness of human life.

Does our living environment teach us to think larger than who we are, or does our environment restrict us to think in a narrow way and set goals for our own lives - goals that are 'safe'? To expand oneself and to become the best of what we really are, we need to think greater than the environment. This is what every great person in history had done.

St. Vincent Pallotti School makes every effort to create an environment where every child can meet himself or herself and rediscover the incredible potencies and talents that reside within them.

As I thank the great effort the editorial board has put into bring out this latest issue of Lume Pallotti, I earnestly wish that St. Vincent Pallotti School serve as a source of inspiration and motivation for a new generation to think differently, act pro actively and create a better tomorrow.

From Chief Editor's Desk

Real growth is to be measured by the novelty of the change it brings. In fact change itself is nothing but the birth of something new. And education is proper only when the learning process is powerful enough to transform the learner to innovate and invent. School education is a great platform to give our younger generation the courage to think differently and to dream creatively; to enable them leave a trace of their individual uniqueness wherever they go and on whatever they lay their hands on.

Lume Pallotti works as a mirror for the young talents of our school. A long procedure has gone behind the preparation of the present issue of Lume Pallotti. And I thank everyone, especially the editorial board members for their hard work and cooperation. Mr. Prateek Shrivastava, Mr. Rishabh Khatri and Mr. Vijay Tiwari, among others, deserve a special word of appreciation for their untiring work in editing and proof reading the articles and in the selection of the photos. I would like to acknowledge all the students and staff who contributed articles and other creations for the magazine.

There may be errors that escaped our attention, and limitations that robbed Lume Pallotti of its perfection. However, as we come to the completion of the 11th edition of our school magazine, I join my hands in gratitude for God's grace and to the overwhelming support and cooperation of the whole editorial team.

Reopening Day

Kindergarten★ Reopening Day

With God's grace and protection, St. Vincent Pallotti School has entered into its 15th year of inception. Having a Management that is committed towards school's progress and a Teaching and support staff dedicated and aligned with the School's aim 'To Enlighten All' our school has become quintessential name in the community synonymous with quality education.

This year Pallotti family welcomed many new members. Our teaching staff increased to 94 creative and motivated teachers. They are ably supported by 9 clerical staff and 31 support staff, all of them working to bring about positive behavioural changes in our 2660 students so that they become responsible citizens of the country and contribute to the society.

The new academic session began on 18th June, 2018. Rev. Fr. Saji Punchal, the Manager of our school, Rev. Fr. Sijo Chacko, the Principal of our school along with the teachers welcomed Rev. Fr. Shinson Sebastian appointed as Public Relation Officer and the new teachers to the school.

The session for the Pre-Primary wing began on 19th June, 2018. Rev. Fr. Saji Punchal, the Manager, Rev. Fr. Sijo Chacko, the Principal, Dr. Roopalee Jadhav, the Pre-Primary Supervisor, Ms. Sheraj Martin, the Nursery Co-ordinator and the other teachers lighted the lamp marking the onset of new session.

16 students from Stds. X and XII who excelled in CBSE board examinations were felicitated by the Management. Miss. Vanshika Tripathi from Std. X received a certificate of appreciation in securing 100 out of 100 in Mathematics, by CBSE Board.

A teacher's job is not merely to 'teach' but to 'enable learning'. To stay updated with the changing paradigm in teaching strategies our teachers attended various workshops and seminars which included programmes such as 'Capacity Building and Remodelled Assessment' organised by CBSE, 'Teaching slow learners' by Rev. Fr. Rocque Marian, 'Classroom Management' by Mrs. Preeti Khanna and Mr. Prince Thomas, and 'Children with special needs' by Sathya Sai Vidhya Vihar. To teach is to work tirelessly. It is also a profession which requires developing leadership qualities in oneself. Seminars such as 'Attitude of an Employee', by Rev. Fr. Rocque Marian and 'Leadership Seminar' organized by Symbiosis University of Applied Sciences aimed at developing essential skills for teachers as employees. Girls of class XI and XII got a great opportunity to listen to Dr. Sr. Alice in a motivating seminar on 'Determination- A key to success' which focused on how girls can achieve any goals they set for themselves.
